Li Xiannian was transformed from an ordinary carpenter to the main leader of the peasants' movement in 1926. In the glorious revolutionary years of the past half century, he has grown up from a peasant's son to a General, and then to the President of the Republic, who has ruled the country and prospered the country. In 1983, Li Xiannian was elected President of the State at the First Session of the Sixth National People's Congress.

Regardless of gender and identity in the face of national crisis, every revolutionary martyr is a comrade working for socialism, and their deeds and spirit will live on in history as a sublime symbol of the Chinese nation and the Chinese people. We will always remember the heroism and selflessness of the revolutionary heroes, and keep their sacrifices and contributions deep in our hearts, always reminding ourselves to go forward for the Chinese dream of the great rejuvenation of the Chinese nation.

Carrying forward the revolutionary culture and inheriting the red spirit, the College of International Exchange has always emphasized on the comprehensive quality education of students and insisted on cultivating young talents with a sense of responsibility and bearing.
