

Teaching quietly and educating people--Excellent Teachers of the College of International Exchange Series of Special Reports (1)

2023-12-05

Excellent academic style cultivates high-quality talents and innovative thinking ability. The College of International Exchange has set up the topic of "Teacher Moral Exemplars" to publish a series of special reports on outstanding teachers. To carry forward the spirit of exemplary, cohesion of the power of role models, and promote the steady development of the educational cause of our college.

Ms. Shi Jiahui, female, CPC member, Master's degree from Central China Normal University, Associate Professor of Hankou University. She was awarded the title of "Good Teacher of Hankou University";

In 2023, she guided her students to win the Silver Prize in the Hubei Provincial Competition of the Ninth China International

"Internet Plus" Student Innovation and Entrepreneurship Competition of CCB Cup;

In 2022, the students under her guidance won the third prize in the 15th China University Student Computer Design Competition (Central and Southern Region);

In 2021, students were awarded the Third Prize in the 14th China University Student Computer Design Competition (South Central Region);

In 2020, she supervised students to win the second prize of the 13th China University Student Computer Design Competition;

Shine with love

Teachers are like light; they are like the light that leads to the distance. In Ms. Shi Jiahui's classroom, students encourage each other and work together as a big group. Ms. Shi Jiahui loves education, in her classroom students are enthusiastic about learning, students think positively, participate in discussions and questions, and have the courage to express their own views, teachers and students work together, make progress together, and let each student give full play to his or her personal potential, forming a good classroom atmosphere.

At the same time, Ms. Shi Jiahui often observes the students' status through the classroom, and for some silent students or students who have not been studying well lately, she will communicate with these students individually during the classroom or breaks, to understand their thought dynamics and current needs and interests, and communicate with them to guide them to deal with the relationship between their lives and studies. Especially for those students who have a weak foundation in English, Ms. Shi will pay more attention to these students, provide them with suitable English learning methods, and constantly inquire about the students' recent learning status.

Eyes are an important window of communication between people, and in the course of teaching, Ms. Shi Jiahui uses eye contact and other unique methods to quickly capture students' expressions and get direct feedback on the lesson. Whether a lesson is good or not depends on whether learning is really happening, and one way to observe whether learning is happening is to see whether the students' eyes are "lit up". Eye contact is the most direct way of information transfer and feedback between teachers and students, and full eye contact is a must for an effective classroom.

Walking with the Light, Cultivating the Peach and Plum

In the process of teaching encountered some key, difficult knowledge and places that students are difficult to understand, Shi Jiahui teacher always adhere to the "teaching-led, learning as the main body", to take the independent, cooperative, exploratory approach, play the initiative and creativity of the students. In this process, to speak deeper and deeper knowledge, deepen students' understanding of what they have learned. As for some aspects of proficient knowledge, it is necessary to mobilize their enthusiasm and initiative in learning.

Ms. Shi Jiahui firmly believes that in classroom teaching, students need to be guided to actively participate in the teacher's teaching activities, and strive to cultivate students' good habits of working hard, working hard, working hard, observing hard, thinking hard, combining their perception and thinking, so that the students follow the teacher's pointer to the wholeheartedly into the learning, and is always in the active state of mind, the limited classroom teaching time is fully given to the students, both Mastered the knowledge, but also learned the method of learning this course.

Education is student-oriented, centered on the development of students' abilities and qualities, and promotes the overall development of students. Dedicated to cultivation and selfless dedication. Teachers of the college will pursue their dreams in the fertile soil of education, cultivate people with their hearts, and build bridges of dreams for students.

